Hello Jessica, I want to take a moment to tell you how much I appreciated the Blanket Exercise you gave last Friday morning. As I said at the time I knew most of the history discussed, however having it presented in specific timelines along with the power point and video presentations really brought the history together.

Combined with your explanations of Indigenous culture, and the participation of the group on the blankets along with the sacred items, their purpose and value, created a very powerful and moving experience. The emotions you conveyed as you took us through that journey spoke volumes to the Indigenous heritage, and the commitment you've made to improve the lives of both Indigenous people, and Canadians as a whole. My understanding of the struggles the Indigenous people have had and continue to face has improved, but I also now know I have much more to learn.

I spent the weekend talking about it with friends and family. It's an experience that I believe all Canadians should have.

Best Regards,
